MEMPHIS HOUSING AFFORDABILITY CRISIS

No state in the USA has an adequate supply of Affordable Rental Housing.

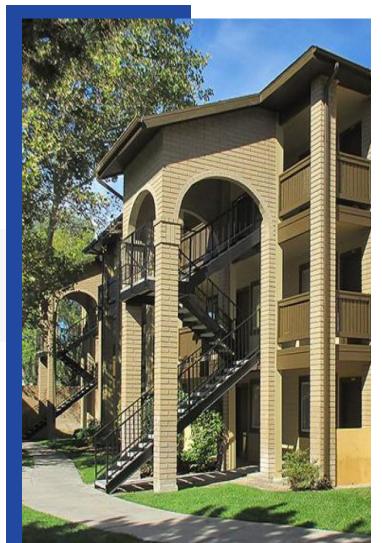

- USA has a shortage of 7.3M affordable rental units.
- 46% of American renters spent at least 30% of their income on housing including 23% who spent at least 50% of their income.

Average US rent has risen 28% over the last five years.

Homeownership costs skyrocketed in 2022 pricing out 2.4 million renters.

Pewresearch.org 2023

- Estimated annual income needed to afford median homeownership costs rose 20%.
- US housing affordability has continually worsened over the past two decades.
- Home Price-to-Income reaches record high in Memphis

Rental Stock in Memphis is older than it has ever been. Median age was 44 years in 2021, up from 34 years two decades ago

Number of low-rent units in the USA has fallen by 2.1 million units in the last decade.

Nearly one third of renters had household income under $30,000/y

- A growing share of the rental stock is more expensive units in larger buildings.
- New construction is furthering this trend by increasingly targeting the high end of the market. In contrast, the supply of units in small multifamily buildings—which tend to have lower median rents—remains largely unchanged.
- The rental stock is older than at any other recorded time. In 2021, the median age of renter-occupied homes reached 44 years, up from 39 years a decade earlier and 34 years in 2001.

The already limited supply of low-rent and federally subsidized units is also at risk. Indeed, 3.2 million units with rents below $600 (38 percent) are in at-risk areas. An additional 1.2 million Low-Income Housing Tax Credit units (40 percent) are at risk from environmental hazards, along with 34 percent of project-based HUD units.

Notes: Moderately (severely) cost-burdened households spend 30–50% (more than 50%) of income on rent and utilities. Households with zero or negative income are assumed to have burdens, and households that are not required to pay rent are assumed to be unburdened. Estimates for 2020 are omitted because of data collection issues experienced during the pandemic.
